Tragedy is seconds away when working inside grain bins and other grain storage structures. In less than 30 seconds, a person can become fatally engulfed when safety strategies are ignored.

“Seconds to Tragedy: Grain Safety for Young Workers,” a new video released by the Grain Handling Safety Coalition (GHSC), captures those tragic seconds in heartbreaking detail through interviews with survivors, family and community members of a dual fatality engulfment. “The video provides a poignant look at the need to educate young workers about safety and encourage them to Stand T.A.L.L. (Talk, Ask, Learn, Live) before tragedy strikes forever impacting people’s lives and their communities,” states Catherine Rylatt, aunt of one of the victims and co-founder of GHSC.
